

Diana Krall a UJ 2016, tutta la magia della 'signora bionda' del jazz. Oggi tocca a Mika

The historic festival comes alive with the return from mattatrice the Canadian musician. Tonight sold out with pop star

Diana Krall and Ola Onabule on the stage of the Arena Santa Giuliana

PERUGIA - The second day of the festival saw the debut of 13 year old Joey Alexander, new world phenomenon of the piano. The young Indonesian replicate the Peacock during UJ in the afternoon events, unmissable opportunity. The evening at the Arena hosted another debut for the Perugian event; Ola Onabule British singer of Nigerian origin has long been on the scene but has deservedly achieved international fame only in these recent years thanks to its colorful soul-jazz full of rhythm and African facets, a set full of charm and melody. The night continued with the highly anticipated return of Diana Krall who returns to Umbria undisputed star. Some people still remember in past editions gain experience in small clubs of the historic center. The beautiful and elegant Diana is now consummate artist and it shows in the main stage performing in a set near perfect through the reinterpretation of evergreen pop music, recorded for the recent Wallflower, accompanied by an extraordinary band. A concert full of ballads and swing so much class. Tomorrow is replicated with Mika concert criticized for its artistic choice but sould-out for some time.

SB

Photo taken from the official website of Umbria Jazz

